

Mr Paul Hodgkins

Executive Director, Paul Hodgkins
Project Consultancy Limited

Paul joined Siemens in 1984 as a graduate trainee and within two years entered the world of Project Management.

From February 2006 until June 2013, he was responsible for leading the PM@Siemens programme (Siemens global programme addressing project business) across the UK and North West Europe where his inspirational leadership style led to greater levels of project and business success.

In April 2009, Paul was nominated by Project Magazine as one of only ten key influencers in the UK in relation to project and programme management.

In July 2013 he established his own business, Paul Hodgkins Project Consultancy, where he has already helped businesses to “unleash the power of projects and programmes”. He continues to be recognised for his contribution to developing the project management profession.

Paul was appointed as a Fellow of the Association for Project Management (FAPM) in October 2009 and represented Siemens globally as part of the PMI Global Executive Council.

Synopsis:

"The Power of Project Leadership - Seven Lessons - A Personal Journey"

This is a story telling presentation of seven leadership lessons I learned starting from when I joined Siemens at aged 17, became a project manager at aged 19 and that have continued to the present day.

And the first lesson started with the hardest interview that to this day, I have ever had.....one where I was only asked three very simple questions!

This is an interactive and engaging presentation and explains that no matter who we are, what roles we play or which projects we manage; we all have the power to lead.
